THURSDAY, JULY 7, 1881. THE LATEST.

The latest report of the President's condition was received Tuesday evening, 8 o'clock. At that time he was coming the odds against his life. We tried to get later news this (Wednesday) morning, but did not succeed. We Choice of Trades-Recitation ... Masters J. Zwart, Austin, Stephene, Bradley, Haller and F. trust, however, to have pleasant, cer-

The President Assassinated!

Last Saturday at 9 o'clock A. M. President Garfield was assaulted by one Charles Guiteau, at the depot of the Baltimore & Potomac railroad, in Washington. The President was about to start for long Branch, where Mrs. Garfield was temporarily residing. As the President in company with Mr. Blaine, was about to enter the ladies waiting room, the assassin stepped up behind him and shot him Maids of Queen's Train. Misses Baby Bakewell and twice-one ball lodging in the right arm, and the other striking the hip penetrating the body, cutting the liver and lodging inside. The Presiderat fell to the ground, and was carried to a room up-stairs, and medical assistance procured at once. A short time after he was taken to the White House, where he has since lain, wa vering between life and death. The assassin, who was arrested at the 'ime, is a lawyer from Chicago, a Stal wart, and an unsuccessful applicant for office. He appears to have acted methodically and coolly, claiming he did the horrible deed "to save the Republican party." When informed the next day by his jailor that the President was yet alive, but suffer ag great- Misses Q Bakewell and Murray. Ist Division: ly, he expressed regrets that he had not shot him a third time-"for," said he, "I wanted to kill him but not to have him suffer great pain."

We have no heart to conment upon the deed. An hour before its commisall our fifty millions who would have deemed it possible that there existed a man capable of so foul, so horrible, so uncalled-for a crime. Par ty rancor and political passion at times lead to desperate deeds; but the election had long since passed, and scarcely a trace of bitter feeling remained in the heart of any Americum citizen; Mr. Garfield in the short time he had be an at the head of affairs, had shown that his purpose was to be President of all the people, and not the tool of a faction; the wounds of the war had closed never to open again; the nation was prosperous in the blessings of peace and plenty; and so monstrous was the act that one and all refused to credit the news as it was flashed over the wires. When later dispatches confirmed the tidings, it was hoped that the act was the Genuine, gnaranteed. that of a madman, not of an accountable being. Now our pride and self-respect are denied even that poor consolation. It was a pre-meditated assassination, coldly planned, and deliberately executed. All that we have new to hope for is, that the assassin's be kept it locked securely in his own the beart up to the time of its coublack heart up to the time of its consummation.

The Cyclopaedia War.

The month of July, 1881, witnesses the completion of the largest and most important literary work this country and the century have seen. It is the Library of Universal Knowledge, large type edition, in 15 large octavo volumes, containing 10 per cent more matter than Appleton's Cyclopædia, at less than one-fifth its cost, and 20 per cent more than Johnson's Cyclopædia, at a little more than one-fourth its cost, Chambers's Encyclopædia, which forms the basis of the Library of Universal Knowledge (the last London edition of 1880 being reprinted verbatim as a portion of its contents), is the laborious product pean scholarship. It has developædia making; its various revised, in successive years, till it has come to be universally recognized, by those competent to judge, as standing at the very front of great aggregations of knowledge, and better adapted than any other Cyclopredia for popular use. It contains such full and important information as the ordinary reader, or the careful student, is likely to seek, upon about 25,000 subjects in every department of human knowledge. Chambers's Encyclopredia, however, is a foreign production, edited and published for a foreign market, and could not be exnence to American topics as sire. To supply these and of American editors and writers have added important articles upon about 15 contains of American editors and writers have added important articles upon about 15,000 topics, covering the entire field of human knowledge, bringing the whole number of titles under one alphabetical arrangement to about 40,000. Thus the work is thoroughly Americanized, and the Library of Universal Knowledge becomes at once the latest and most complete Encyclopædia in the field, at a mere fraction of the cost of any similar work which has preceded it. Price of the 15 volumes, complete, in extra cloth binding, $15.00. In half Russia, sprinkled edges, $20.00. In half Russia, gilt top, $22.50. In full library sheep, marbled edges, $25.00.

The superlative value and importance of this great Encyclopædia lies especially in the fact that it is brought within the reach of every one who aspires after knowledge and culture. It is really a libra-outfit of his home. To the professional man, and every person of intelligence in every walk of life, a Cyclopædia is a necessity.

Of course the old and wealthy publishers who have grown rich (it is said that the hand to pay the same. The majority of booksellers, however, are better pleased to slander than to sell this and our numerous other standard and incomparably low-priced publications. But the Literary Revolution has always looked to the people, in whose interests it is, for its patronage, and it has never
